Title: Self-similar implosion in fluids via computer-assisted proofs

Abstract: Computer techniques have gained a lot of traction in the last decade as a way to find self-similar profiles for PDEs. Computer-assisted proofs have also been used in order to study their properties, with special emphasis on the spectral properties of the associated evolution problem. We will discuss some recent progress in the case of implosion for fluid equations.