

Title: Self-similar singularities in fluids via computational techniques

Abstract: In the last years, modern computational techniques such as machine learning have appeared in the context of PDE. Computer-assisted proofs have become more mainstream in conjunction with classical analysis. In this talk I will discuss some recent progress in the case of singularities for certain fluid equations.