

Title:

A barrelful of cellular or natural estimators

Abstract:

In density estimation and classification, we discuss solutions that partition the space recursively using simple local splitting rules.

We highlight the implications of this design restriction in nonparametric density estimation in general and for the estimation of monotone, unimodal, convex, concave or log-concave densities in particular.