

Title: Flows: Topology, Geometry, Algebra, & AI

Abstract:

This opening talk is meant to frame what will be an exciting and potentially historic workshop on fluids. After a brief survey of some topological and geometric aspects of Euler flows, we will consider broader notions of flows in applied mathematics, including some algebraic examples. This will point to current & future practical considerations on the use of artificial intelligence in mathematics research.